HARVEY CHENAULT SELLS HIS FARM

Handsone Home of 441 Acres On Big Hill Pike Bought By Wilson and Chas. Brandenburg

One of Madison's "show" farms the home of Col. and Mrs. Harvey Chenault, was sold Monday by Real Estate Agent L. P. Evans to Wilson and Charles Brandenburg. The consideration was $290 per acre for the 441.81 acres in the transaction. Mr. Chenault retains about 161 acres but his handsome old home goes with the tract sold to Messrs. Brandenburg.

The Chenault home farm is located about four miles from Richmond on the Big Hill pike—the Dixie Highway. It is all splendid land, fine tobacco and corn land, and real estate men say that it is one of the cheapest farms that have been sold in Madison in a long time.

Possession of most of the place will be given January 1st, and of the balance the middle of January. Most of Col. Chenault's farm has been leased to his nephew, Tom C. Chenault, and his cousin, Waller Chenault, during the past season. Mr. Chenault's plans are said not to definitely determine as yet, but this friends hope that he will move to town.

10 TO 15 REPORTED BURNED TO DEATH

(By Associated Press)

Klamath Falls, Oregon, Sept. 7.—From ten to fifteen persons are believed to have been burned to death here early Monday in a fire which destroyed the Houston opera house and other business and dwelling houses nearby. The police say eight bodies have been taken from the ruins of a hotel filled with Labor Day visitors.

MORE WHISKY FOUND

Three Mercer county men were arrested and four more barrels of whisky, stolen from the D. L. Moore distillery at VanArsdale on August 24, were recovered by Prohibition Agent Rowan Sautley and Deputy Collector Gibson, of Danville, Monday afternoon. The men arrested were Charles Adams, Robert Adams and Huntley Yocum, who were taken before Commissioner Lawwell, of Danville, who held them under $1,500, after they had entered a plea of guilty to taking whisky from the D. L. Moore distillery.

The whisky discovered by Agent Sautley was found buried in a sink-hole on the farm of W. S. Harlan, about a mile and a half from VanArsdale, the scene of the fake holdup and theft. Mr. Harlan said he had no knowledge of the presence of the liquor and was not arrested. The action of Agent Sautley was taken after a partial confession made by Robert Adams, after some evidence had been obtained independently which pointed toward his participation in the robbery.

The discovery of the four barrels by Prohibition Agent Sautley and Collector Gibson makes a total of nine barrels of the missing whisky which has been recovered.

FISCAL COURT TUESDAY

Fiscal court opened for regular session Tuesday, Judge W. K. Price in charge, and the routine business was in order. That there will be considerable business pertaining to roads before the court there is no question. The great amount of road work being done commands close attention and the present year promises to record the greatest improvement in the past decade in Madison county roads generally.

BANKERS IN SESSION

Messrs. R. E. Turley, of the State National Bank, and H. B. Cosby, of the Madison Bank, are in Louisville attending the annual convention of the Kentucky State Bankers' Association. Messdames Cosby and Turley accompanied their husbands and will spend a few days there during the convention.

COX FAVORS SELF DETERMINATION

Democratic Nominee Has Great Day In Minnesota—No "Pink Tea," He Declares

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 7.—"I am in favor of the principle of self determination in Japan, in China, in Turkey, in Persia, in Ireland, or any other place in the world."

This climax to an explanation of the operation of the League of Nations to a heckler at St. Paul before a great audience by Gov. James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for the Presidency, was greeted by a tremendous outburst of applause, in which the heckler himself joined.

The querist, who described himself as an Ohioan who had worked in Dayton, demanded to know whether the candidate, if elected President, would recognize the "Republic of Ireland."

His action threw the meeting into confusion and demands were made for his ejection.

Gov. Cox forbade the advancing police to touch the man, declaring that it was the time for free speech upon all subjects.

As soon as order had been restored the Governor described that part of the covenant which dealt with the self-determination of the peoples of the nations, asserting that it was the greatest of the 14 points enunciated preceding the signing of the armistice.

Quoting Article X, he said it was intended to preserve the peace of the world by preventing larger nations from applying bullying tactics to smaller nations.

Then he launched his assertion regarding what he favored for Ireland and for all countries seeking their natural right. The heckler bowed and joined in the applause, the Governor coming to the edge of the platform to thank him for his courtesy.

"There is no question appearing to this campaign that I am afraid to discuss," said the Governor when the cheering came to an end.

The incident was but one of a remarkable day filled with notable campaigning features and unusual experiences.

Incidentally, he demonstrated his skill as a horseman by driving a fast pacer around the track at the fair grounds, a feat that brought the applause of the lovers of the game. In addition he was photographed with an old Winnebago Indian Chief, who asserted he was 132 years old, and was alive when George Washington was President.

In brusque fashion he answered local criticism that his style of campaigning was too rough by asking, amid encouraging shouts: "Who is squealing? Is it not the same crowd that for a year fought a sick man and drove him into a sick bed in the White House? Let me say to them: This is not going to be a pink tea fight nor a pillow contest."

MOSES IN RACE AGAIN

FOR U. S. SENATOR IN EAST

(By Associated Press)

Concord, Mass., Sept. 7.—Senator George Moses' candidacy for the republican nomination for United States senator was the outstanding interest in today's primaries for senator, congressman and governor.

Moses' opponent is Huntley N. Spaulding, whose forces excited great efforts in the capture of the women's votes on the strength of Moses' opposition to woman suffrage. Moses is also said to be "irreconcilable" on the League of Nations.

REPUBLICANS IN BIG CONTEST CASE

Judgeship Nomination In Lee-Still District Prize Kash and Hurst Fight For

Beattyville, Ky., Sept. 7.—What promises to be the bitterest political trial ever held in the mountains, began here Monday in the hearing of the suit of W. L. Kash Jackson, contesting the republican nomination for Circuit Court Judge of his cousin, Sam Hurst, of Beattyville, on grounds of fraud.

Charges and counter charges of wholesale corruption have been made by both sides following the primary, which resulted in Mr. Hurst receiving the nominating certificate by 26 votes. The primary campaign was one of the bitterest ever conducted in this section of the state and fist fights were not infrequent.

Two days after the primary attorneys for Kash filed a suit asking the County Judge for a mandatory injunction to compel the County Election Commissioners to throw out the vote in Spring Fork precinct, this county.

The suit charged that while election officers of this precinct were on their way to deliver the ballot boxes to the county clerk, they were intercepted on the road by Hurst supporters and the boxes stuffed with 20 ballots for Mr. Hurst.

Only 57 votes actually were cast in this precinct, according to the suit, whereas 77 were found when the ballot box was opened by the election commissioners.

Charges were also made that more than 100 democrats, whose names were set forth, had voted for Mr. Hurst. The county judge refused to grant the injunction and the case was appealed.

Circuit Judge W. R. Shackelford, of Richmond, ruled that relief could not be obtained through an injunction, but through a contest, and the Court of Appeals upheld his ruling. The contest suit was then filed by Mr. Kash.

More than a score of attorneys have been retained by Mr. Hurst, who filed 48 pages of countercharges alleging that democrats and persons not competent to vote had cast ballots for Mr. Kash. Erroneous counting of ballots and vote buying were also charged.

Charges of acceptance of large contributions from corporations are made by both men.

Circuit Judge Cisco, of Grayson has been appointed special judge to hear the case. Attorneys for Mr. Kash will insist on verbal testimony, whereas the other side will ask that depositions be taken. It is not a jury case.

TAXES FOR PAST YEAR NOW BEING PAID

The 1920 taxes are being paid by the wholesale these days, and the result of the influx of court day is causing attaches of Sheriff Whitlock's office to spend more than the usual time over the accounts. Tax books are being received by the wholesale, and the work is said to be well in hand. Owing to the fact that there were more than the usual number of properties listed for taxation last year, because of numerous sales and the cutting up of the big farms, there is extra work. This is also augmented by the fact that there was an increase in the rate and the returns this year are expected to exceed by far those of last year.

Many took advantage of court day and paid their taxes. These will have to be paid by December 1 and, according to the returns being made, there will be a very creditable showing made.

Another Clay Killing

Manchester, Ky., Sept. 7.—News was brought here that James Gabbard, merchant of Upper Buffalo Creek, northern part of the county, was shot and instantly killed from ambush near his home yesterday. Gabbard was a member of a feudist family. He was shot some time ago from ambush, but not seriously. Pleas Philpot, 48 years old, shot and instantly killed Gib Hampton, 25, on Little Goose Creek, about four miles west of here today. The shooting is said to have taken place after the two had quarreled at the home of Philpot. Hampton was shot in the head with a shot gun.

MRS. HAGGARD ASKS DIVORCE

Charges Husband, Held For Good's Death, Tried To Blacken Her Reputation

Winchester, Ky., Sept. 7.—Charging he has attempted to "destroy her good reputation," Mrs. Nancy Haggard, Monday, filed suit for divorce from Rodney Haggard, Winchester attorney, now being held on charge of murdering Ben Good on the streets here two weeks ago.

The suit for divorce follows a statement issued by Haggard's wife a few days ago in which she declared she knew Good only as an acquaintance and branded her husband's jealousy as unfounded.

Haggard is to be placed on examining trial Wednesday before the county judge charged with Good's murder. He has refused to make any statement, maintaining the silence which characterized his actions when he shot down young Good.

Mrs. Haggard, who had been separated from her husband for a month prior to the shooting, and who is said to have made several attempts to convince him his jealousy was not justified, ask custody of their 4-year-old daughter and $20,000 alimony.

The petition for divorce charges that Haggard "for more than six months habitually behaved toward her in such manner as to indicate a settled aversion to her," and that "more than once he has driven her from her home with out cause."

The petition also charges that "he had been partly responsible for rumors hurtful to her good reputation and to defame and blacken her character," and "has attacked her reputation for chastity without the slightest foundation for truth."

Charges that he brutally choked her and drove her from her home with marks of his fingers in her throat, are also made.

She says she is weak and in poor health and has no means of earning a living for herself and daughter. She says her husband has been successful in practice of law, in the oil and loan business; and is capable of earning $8,000 to $10,000 a year.

FIREMEN RECALLED

Monday afternoon city firemen were again called to the scene of the F. H. Gordon warehouse fire of Sunday night to extinguish fire that started in the debris, and several hours were spent in throwing water. It is the intention to clear away the refuse as soon as the heat subsides sufficiently, and plans, which are said to be already underway for a new building, may be announced.

The loss will be about as stated in these columns, and the insurance will practically cover the loss sustained by Mr. Gordon. Mrs. Christian, owner of the building, will lose the value of the structure, since there was no insurance. This will be several thousand dollars. The building is said to have been one of the best in that part of the city, having been constructed for planing mill purposes originally. The produce of Mr. Gordon is being taking care of by additional floospace secured for the time being and he announces he will be ready for business again Wednesday morning.

BOY BADLY HURT

William, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Belue, suffered a severe accident Monday while assisting in driving livestock near the east end stockyards. The lad was barefooted and stepped upon a broken bottle, with the result that a deep gash several inches in length was cut in his left foot. The laceration extended entirely across the bottom of the lad's foot, and he suffered greatly from the loss of blood. His condition was discovered by Roy Taylor, who summoned Charles Baldwin, who was near at hand, and they took the situation at once. The blood, owing to the weight of the boy's body, simply seemed to gush from the wound. He was placed in the automobile of Mr. Baldwin and hurried to the office of Dr. Sandlin, where the wound was dressed. It may be that if the ligaments in the bottom of the foot are entirely severed, the boy will be rendered a permanent cripple.

MADISON WOMEN CROWD COURT HOUSE

Mrs. Harrison Given Hearty Welcome By New Voters When She Speaks For Cox

The Daily Register regrets that it is unable today to present a stenographic report of the splendid address which Mrs. A. M. Harrison, of Lexington, delivered to the voters of Madison county Monday. Shorthand notes of the address were taken, but they had not been transcribed in time for the Daily Register to use them today.

No more representative gathering has been held in Richmond in a long time than greeted Mrs. Harrison and Hon. Helm Bruce, who followed her. The county court room was packed and jammed with men and women voters. Every available seat was taken, the aisles were filled with those standing and the windows had folks sitting in them. It was a magnificent turnout for the women and men of Madison county in honor of the first political speech made in Madison county since the gentler sex were enfranchised. Great credit is due to the organization of loyal democratic women who had charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Harrison was introduced by Dr. Homer W. Carpenter, of the First Christian church, after County Chairman Judge John C. Chenault had called the meeting to order. Dr. Carpenter paid high tribute to Mrs. Harrison for her high life's work for humanity and the better things of life. All listened eagerly to what Mrs. Harrison had to say. She particularly stressed the League of Nations and showed plainly and convincingly why the women of America should vote the Democratic ticket this fall and put this great organization into effect that wars may never come upon the world again.

Mrs. Harrison was entertained at the Hotel Glyndon by Mrs. C. W. Holton, city chairman, and Mrs. C. W. Cobb, county chairman. They escorted her to the court house. A number of prominent young democratic veterans of the world war acted as ushers for the ladies, among them being Charles George, Frank Devore and Eugene Moynahan. They were assisted by several of the local campaign committee, Messdames Joe Head, D. B. Shackelford, Misses Marianne Collins, Anne DeJarnette, Margaret Parrish and others. It was a great day for the women of Madison county in their first political meeting, and presages greater enthusiasm in their work in old Madison.

Among those on the stage with the speakers, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Bruce, were Judge Chenault, Dr. Carpenter, Mrs. Carpenter, Judge Ralph Hilbert, of Shelbyville, Democratic candidate for congress, Mrs. Nannie Embury, Miss Belle Bennett, Mrs. Cobb and Mrs. Holton.

Mr. Bruce made a strong address, featuring the League of Nations. He said that he came to Richmond as an independent, not a democrat; that he had cast more republican votes during the past 10 years than he had democratic, but that he felt this is a time when every man who loved his country and his home should vote the democratic ticket and elect a democratic president and congress, that the great principles of justice to humanity and protection to our own homes should be secured through the League of Nations, which the Democratic candidates are for and the republican candidates against.

LOCAL LEGIONAIRES HONORED

Representatives from the Jesse M. Dykes Post of the American Legion have returned from the convention at Louisville, greatly enthused with the work of the great organization. Charles George, a prominent member of the local post was honored by being made member of the State Legislation Committee. His friends say that no better selection could have been made as Mr. George is thoroughly conversant with Legion affairs and needs. Harry D. Rice was another member of the local post who was present at the convention and was honored by committee appointments.

B. F. EDWARDS OUT AGAIN

County School Superintendent B. F. Edwards, who has been confined to his home for some time with flu, is able to be out and has again taken charge of the affairs at his office. He reports there will be a meeting of the board again soon, at which there will in all probability be a truist officer named. This office has proven a boon to the schools of the county and the new laws will be enforced strictly. There have been no applications made for the office since the resignation of Prof. Paris B. Akin.

Today's Livestock Markets

Cincinnati, Sept. 7.—Good cattle steady; others very slow; hogs steady; Chicago strong; lambs steady.

GOOD STOCK SALES REPORTED MONDAY

Madison County Grazing Lands Halt Shipping For Present—Fall Sales Being Awaited

The extensive sale of stock expected Monday did not materialize, and the exceptional fall grass prospects are said to be the cause. There was much selling at the East End stockyards, where several hundred head of steers sold for 9 1-2 cents, and most of these were bought by local men who will fatten them for the fall market. There were four loads sent the Cincinnati market, but aside from this most of the stock was held in Madison county.

Hogs sold well at 14 1-2 cents, the demand being steady throughout the day, the result being that few were sent out of the county. These also will remain in the confines of the county until the later market. There was an abundance of sheep changed hands, the selling price of $10 which started in the morning continuing throughout the day. This was one of the best sheep days for some time, dealers say.

On the streets the demand for mule colts was unusual, the prices ranging from $60 to $100, and $110 to $125 for tops. There was a demand for good saddle horses, but few were to be seen, and fewer changing hands, they being retained by their owners to await the fall sale, it is said. Work mules were in demand and there were good sales throughout the day, most of them going to eastern contracting companies. It is said as a result of the sale more than 100 mules which have been doing work on the local farms will appear in Pennsylvania in a few days. The shipments to the eastern markets have been heavy for some time and there is every indication that the later sales will record more big shipments from this city. There is a steady demand for the work mule, said to be found at this time of the year in large numbers here.

All in all, the sales for the day were good, but not what had been expected, since most of the work on the farm at the instance of the horse has been finished. However, this brings the matter back to the abundance of fall grass, which is causing the withholding of most stock at present. Some believe the grazing will remain good until nearly the first of the year.

Dering Had To Gouge Coal Men Himself

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Replying to charges made by Gov. Cox that an attempt was made to levy the republican campaign assessment to $8,000 on certain coal operators J. K. Dering, named by Cox as one of the principals, in a statement today denied the committee, of which he is chairman, held a meeting such as Cox described. It did meet, generally, in Dering's office, he said, and generally it was I who had to run around to coal men and pry money out of them. We raised between $18,000 and $20,000 and turned it over to Republican National Committee Treasurer Upham.

DEMPEY WINS IN THREE ROUNDS

Billy Miske Knocked Out By Champion With Utmost Ease When Ready

(By Associated Press)

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 7.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavy weight champion, received $55,000 for battering Billy Miske, the St. Paul challenger, to defeat in the third round of their scheduled ten round bout here yesterday. According to a statement of receipts given out today by Promoter Fitzsimmons, the total attendance was 11,348, and total receipts $134,904.

Miske fought on a straight guarantee of $25,000. Miske's ribs are sore and his jaw bruised but otherwise he is none the worse for his experience. Dempsey did not bear a mark of the battle. Miske is heartbroken over his defeat. He hoped to stay the limit and left the ringside in tears.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 7.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavy weight champion, defending his title for the first time, knocked out Billy Miske, of St. Paul, in the third round of a scheduled ten round championship fight here Monday evening.

The finish came after they had fought one minute and 13 seconds of the third round. The challenger had been floored with a right hand punch to the chin and Miske took the count of nine. As he staggered to his feet Dempsey whipped over another right hander and Miske fell in his own corner. Referee Dougherty counted him out.

The fight was witnessed by a crowd of approximately 17,000. The gate receipts were estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000.

In the preliminaries, Bill Tate had the better of Sam Langford. The six round bout between Harry Greb and Chuck Wiggins was a draw.

Three hard smashes were sufficient to win Dempsey between $50,000 and $100,000, his 50 per cent share of the gate receipts. At the start of the fight, his first in 14 months, Dempsey peeled off the same worn and patched sweater that he wore when he knocked out Jess Willard. His face wore the same fighting frown. He danced about the ring with old time light footedness and finished up by taking the fight in the third round, just as he did at Toledo. The third round went one minute and 13 seconds.

Miske went down three times in less than two and one-half rounds of fighting in the second he measured his length of the floor for the count of five. In the fatal third, driven to his corner under a rain of lefts and rights to the stomach and chin, the challenger took the count of nine, and had just regained his feet, when Dempsey, carefully measuring his opponent, finished the bout with a right hand punch to the chin.

Miske, sitting in his corner being revived after the knockout, made this statement:

"Dempsey is a better man than I am. That fellow hits too hard. The punch that floored me in the second round all but caved my ribs in. I never was hit so hard in my life. The blow took all of the steam out of me and I had not recovered from its effects when the third round opened. I think Dempsey is unbeatable. There is not a heavy weight living that can stand up under his punches. I fought the best battle I could but was whipped before I really got started."

Dempsey, after a bath at his camp outside the arena, made this statement:

"I told my friends I would win. I never had any doubt of it. Miske is tough and I trained and fought him with as much caution as I would fight any heavyweight. He did not hit me hard enough to seriously hurt. The punch that started him on his way was a smash to the stomach in the second round. I felt my fist sink into his ribs and knew he was hurt. After that I was confident I could end it whenever I wanted to, but I fought carefully and took no chances. The first came before I could get warmed up."
